That Hacking Cough

Hard coughs are bad enough, to be sure. But it's often the little, hacking, tickling, persistent cough that means the most, especially when there is a history of weak lungs in the family. What should be done? Ask your doctor. He knows. Ask him about the formula on the label of every bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask him if this medicine has his full approval for throat and lung troubles. Then do as he says.

All in the Open.

The best thing they do, however, is to give absolute publicity to the whole of their deliberations. They not only advise the rest of their members but they also let the whole of the outside public know what is going on and what they have decided is the best course to pursue in any matter that may arise pursue in any matter that may arise and in this way, by gaining the respect and trust of everybody they are able by their solid front to make a better showing than otherwise. Their own town was one that had a big future before it, they had trade with the Orient, great military activity, the Pavama Canal was coming to help them and they should all combine together in some way or snother.

The club was not falfilling its mis-sion to the full extent. It was all very well to meet over the luncheon table and no doubt that was a very good thing in its way but it was not enough. At the same time, however, he was not prepared to admit that all the organizations in town should amalgamate. This was hardly a feasible addressed the audience. Scheme. (Applause.) Each one had certain intrinsic interests of its own. What he would suggest was that say three members of each association should meet and talk different matters and smatterings of other races were to should meet and talk different matters and smatterings of other races were to over as they came up and then let be seen. The crowd was a very order-everybody know the result of their ly one, and the big body of police deliberations. It was only by some united effort of this kind that they had nothing to do but stop two small could hope to better their city, their government and to secure a great one another.
